Dear Ivan,

Thank you for your thoughtfulness in having Veronica call me yesterday to tell me not to come up Monday. However, the change in schedule, taking longer than you apparently anticipated, is making problems for me. I cannot make plans to do any of the things I should because I want to be able to come up as soon as you want me.

Would you please give me an idea of when this might be and approximately how long you think you'll want me to remain in New York? If you can, I can then plan for my other necessities.

Thanks a lot. Hope to see you soon.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Leisberg
